

All Materials Locator

Please read these introduction bullet point about the unit, while you wait to talk to a representative:

- The AML Pro comes with an LED screen that displays when you are getting closer or further from your target. The display also has an inclinometer for shooting depths. It has a menu prompt that allows the operator to customize several variations of usage including the ability to recalibrate your unit using the same program that we use in the factory.

This process takes less than 10 seconds and will state "pass" or "fail."

- In addition, the AML Pro comes with a built-in GPS for documenting your locations which can then be downloaded to a mapping program that utilizes one of these four formats: CSV, KML, XML, & GPX.
- Both models come with a limited 3-year warranty, not counting the year purchased.
- Training is extremely important. Each unit comes with two training credits. Training is normally held at our headquarters in De Pere, Wisconsin (a suburb of Green Bay, Wisconsin, USA). On dealer sales, they would be responsible for training or the customer can always choose to be trained here. While the client would be responsible for their transportation to and from our facility, we would then cover all your hotel, food and transportation expenses while here. We generally spend two days training and most clients arrive the evening before training starts and leave the day after training is completed. If you purchase a unit now and after training is completed you decide that you don't like the unit, we will refund all your money before you leave. We want everyone happy!
